To Whom it May Concern

I read with some interest that the Transport of NSW has applied to your office for an exemption of a 5 year period in regards to provision of disabled access to the Birchgrove ferry wharf which is currently under construction.

The reason for the exemption put forward is that they need to work together with the local council, Leichhardt, in regards to provision of a path through the adjoining park.

For Gods sake we are talking about a path through a park that is somewhat neglected and abused by recreational fishermen that already has a road of sorts in part of the park. There is no need for a 5 year exemption, rather they should design and build a path allowing disabled access. This should not be too hard and both bodies need to collaborate and cooperate to commence on this.

Why, in this day and age, do people have to fight for equal access to public facilities, why are the disabled continually overlooked. Don't grant them a 5year exemption, make them do it now.

Yours sincerely
